bertolt brecht once worried that how we feel about the victims of a social problem can get in the way of the beauty and attraction of the problem itself in this book walter benn michael's explores the same dilemma through a study of several contemporary artist photographers whose work speaks to questions of political economy michael's focuses on the work of several artists mostly born in the 1970s and thus raised in a world where artistic ambition has been identified with a critique of autonomous form and of meaning as a function of intention michael's shows that these artists engage but also push beyond this critique of autonomy and intentionality producing works that embody a new commitment to form and meaning the explanation for this commitment he argues is these artists consciousness of making art in an economy riven by structural conflict especially an unprecedented rise in inequality for them he argues the relationship of the art work to the world to its subject and to its beholder functions as an emblem of the relation between classes rather than identities or subject positions this book will join the short shelf of essential writings about the medium of photography

this volume brings together former students colleagues and others influenced by the sociological scholarship of archibald o haller to celebrate haller's many contributions to theory and research on social stratification and mobility all of the chapters respond to haller's programmatic agenda for stratification research a full program aimed at understanding stratification requires first that we know what stratification structures consist of and how they may vary second that we identify the individual and collective consequences of the different states and rates of change of such structures and third seeing that some degree of stratification seems to be present everywhere that we identify the factors that make stratification structures change the contributors to this festschrift address such topics as the changing nature of stratification regimes the enduring significance of class analysis the stratifying dimensions of race ethnicity and gender and the interplay between educational systems and labor market outcomes many of the chapters adopt an explicitly cross societal comparative perspective on processes and consequences of social stratification the volume offers both conceptually and empirically important new analyses of the shape of social stratification this book reinterprets the notion of the commons by tracing how it has been mobilised in the aftermath of economic crisis in a period of widespread activism against the privatisation of resources and services implemented through austerity policies the reconceptualisation of property as a non absolute and non individualistic institution has attracted a great deal of attention drawing on the case of the italian south and in the wake of economic crisis this book offers a critical analysis of the struggle for the commons more specifically as it details how discourses legal tools and policies based on disciplinary ideas of the commons are deployed in the neoliberal restructuring of societies the book considers how conflicting ideas of the commons express different and often clashing visions of urban space in this regard moreover it shows how law plays a central albeit ambivalent role in the struggle for the commons as both a governmental technique to regulate urban space and its residents and as an emancipatory tactic to advance non proprietary visions of ownership this book will be of interest to scholars in socio legal studies property law legal sociology and politics as well as others with more general interests in the critical potential of contemporary social movements
